THE report that Germany was trying to obtain the cession of a Siamese port in the territory to the North of Penang has caused the Straits Times to urge that England should insist upon a recognition of the Monroe doctrine as regards the Malay Peninsula. Sir James Fengusson, the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in reply to a question in the House of Commone, gave a denial to the report as to Germany's intentions, which our contemporary suggests was based on much the same idle rumours as those which caused Sir Andrew CLARKE to make an alarmist speech on 29th June last at a Straits Settlements dinner

They may or may not have been idle, but, as sant that there should be such rumours, although perhaps they may be ordered for mission. good if the Colonial Office will prompt the Marquis of Salisbury to explain generally that any European effort to obtain territory in the Straits could only be regarded by England as a deliberately unfriendly act. which has a very important bearing on the cleanliness and health of the city. . The chie point at issue seems to be whether these establishments should be allowed to be kep? by private persons for their own profit or Government control. To this we think there can be only one answer, but there are as usual vested interests to be reckoned with. As the law at present stands any person can establish a public latrine wherever he likes, and a charge being made for their use, considerable incomes are made in the business. The competition of free Government latrines is not welcomed by the keepers of the establishments maintained for private gain, and greasy, or that appear to have been used been presented against the former are due rather to the exertions of those whose pecuniary interest is threatened than to any genuine public feeling on the subject. The Bangkok Times of the 28th January save :- From authentic information received we are able to substantiate the vague rumours which existed in Bangkok last week regarding a cv clone at Moung Champon. We now learn from the Governor of that province, who has received special information, that a cyclon- of a devastatng nature raged at Moung Champon on the 13th instant, aweeping away some thirteen hundred habitations and rooting up and destroying a number of immense trees. Several of the sailing craft of the place have been carried inland by the fury of the storm, and now remain high and dry. The adjacent country has been inundated for miles around, the water to the depth of three to four feet lying on the ground for several days after the terrible visitation. Great distress exists among the inhabitants of the district, and His Majesty the of the outsetrophe. A similar and equally serious storm was experienced in Moung Chempon just eighteen years ago; but nothing like Kong Lee was lost with all hands.

The Macao Liberdade, in its report of the capture of two junks at Macao supposed to have been connected with the Namoa piracy, says that on being taken to the Harbour Master's office one of the men confessed that the murderer of Captain Pocock was a brother of his and was in a junk which the other prisoners promised to point out. In consequence of this the Land of the water police, Sr. Bellino Rodrigues, accompanied by ten armed men, left in the steam faunch Taips in search of the other piretes, taking in tow one of the junks which had been seized in order that the crew might give the necessary directions, but as the place indicated proved to be at a great distance the pursuit had to be abandoned.
